

I can define plagiarism.

"plagiarism: the act of using another person's words or ideas without _____" (Merriam-Webster).
Is it Plagiarism?
Taking text from another author, switching out a few key words and providing a citation and a works cited.	Y	N
Copying text word for word from another author, placing quotation marks around the text and providing in-text citation and a works cited.	Y	N
Borrowing another author's idea, but putting in your own words and including their book in your works cited.	Y	N

The four types of plagiarism include:
I
V
O
W
Not to Cheat!

I can avoid plagiarism by paraphrasing &/or summarizing my research findings.

Paraphrase: Restating a passage from a source into your own words. A paraphrased statement will usually cover the _____ &amp; _____ as the original source, but will typically be a little shorter. You will still need to _____ to the original author or source, in both your _____ &amp; _____.	Summarize: Broad _____ of an original source, only covering the _____. Summaries are usually much shorter than the original source and _____ than a paraphrase. You will need to cite this in _____ &amp; _____ cited.
--	--

Is the following a good example of paraphrasing?

Original: If you take a sentence from a source and change around a few words, it is still plagiarism (Bambaum).

Paraphrase: If you take a section from a book and change around some of the words, it is still plagiarism (Bambaum).

Yes

No

I can determine when my research data or facts must be cited.

To Cite:

1.

2.

3.

4.

No need to Cite:

1.

2.

3.

4.

Would you need to cite the following?

In a survey of high school students 47% admitted copying and pasting from the Web.

Y

N

Better late than never.

Y

N

A quote taken word for word from the president's last speech.

Y

N

I can follow a standard format for in-text citation for sources that I paraphrased or quoted in my writing.

In-text Citation Format for Paraphrase, Summary, Fact, or Statistics: Include the _____ &amp; the _____ (_____) within parentheses at the end of the section which includes the paraphrase, summary, fact or statistics. Place the period _____ the citation.	In-text Citation Format for Quotations: Quotes (text that has been copied _____ for _____) should be placed in _____ with the citation at the end. The citation should include the author's last name and the page number (if present) within parentheses. Place the period after the citation _____.
--	--

You've found a section from page 60 of The Jungle by Upton Sinclair...
that you would like to paraphrase and use in your paper, what would the in-text citation look like?
that you would like to copy word for word and use in your paper, what would you need to put around the text?

I can describe the consequences of Plagiarizing at LSW.

First Offense:
Second Offense:
Subsequent Offenses:	